A&E DVD Video Recorder is a program for recording DVD movies. It supports a wide variety of DVD formats, such as AVI, ASF, VOB, MPG and WMV. The program includes a built-in DVD movie player, so you can preview your DVD movie before recording. It is equipped with a new user-friendly interface, providing convenient DVD movie recording and file management. To begin recording, you need to choose the input device, video and audio encoding formats, time of recording, disc name and default disc path. After the selection, a menu will appear that allows you to play back, record or preview the DVD movie. Users can adjust the video, audio, font, shadow and size settings. You can also insert transition effects and select any transition mode (e.g. fade in/out, cross fade, wipe). Besides that, the program lets you customize the title, theme and background images of the menu. There is a whole bunch of options to import and export files, such as files from USB devices, databases, FTP servers and more. To preview a DVD movie, click the "Play" button. If you want to share your DVD movie, you can copy it to any media device, or simply burn the output file to a blank DVD disc. The program's interface has a well-organized layout that makes it very simple to navigate around. DVD Video Recorder also allows you to record DVD movies directly from a DVD camcorder, and supports advanced DVD disc authoring features, such as multi-angle viewing and DVD menu creation. The disc authoring and DVD video editing features are very easy-to-use and require a few mouse clicks to perform. BurnVox DVD Xpress is one of the most advanced DVD burning software available. It will let you make titles, menus, and chapters, all from the comfort of your own computer, with NO special equipment or programs, saving you money on blank DVDs! "DVD BURNING Xpress" (www.BurnVox.com) burns DVD-Video to DVD-R/RW discs and DVD-Video to DVD-R/RW discs with one of the fastest CD-R/RW recording speeds, and also allows you to make multi-layer DVD-Video discs. It is packed with advanced features, including built-in titles, text, and slide shows. This easy-to-use DVD video disc burning software allows you to create DVD video discs from any type of video source files, such as avi, mpg, wmv, asf, mpeg, divx, avs, and mpeg2, plus there are also some formats that are not yet supported. * Format Support: BurnVox DVD Xpress supports all popular video formats such as avi, mpg, wmv, asf, mpeg, divx, avs, and mpeg2. Also, it supports avc-h264 files created by MXF/MKV based video editing software and TS files produced by Dolby Digital EX hardware. You can even create multi-layer DVD video discs with your own backgrounds, slide shows, videos, and still images. * DVD Video Burning: BurnVox DVD Xpress allows you to burn to DVD video discs or DVD+R/RW discs with ease. BurnVox DVD Xpress also allows you to create multi-layer DVD video discs by automatically combining your picture, background, and menu on one or more layers. You can add watermark and logo to your DVD video discs. * DVD Video Structure Support: BurnVox DVD Xpress allows you to create multi-layer DVD video discs, so that your movie has multiple layers, each with its own picture, background, and menu, all in a single DVD video disc. This not only enables you to mix several videos on a single disc, but also to create and preserve various video structures, including: "audio," "dvd," "dual-layer," and "multi-layer." * DVD Video Multi

What's New In?

DVD Burning Xpress is a resourceful software application developed for creating full-featured DVD movies from video clips of various formats. It supports plenty of file types, such as AVI, MOV, VOB, ASF, WMV and MPG. The program's interface has a well-organized layout where users can easily figure out how to work with DVD Burning Xpress. Adding video clips from the disk to the file list is done by using the file browser only, since the "drag and drop" function is not supported. It is also possible to capture video directly from a DV camcorder device. The video list shows important information for each item, namely the duration, resolution, default trimmed length and transition, along with its file path. Video trimming is accurately performed by viewing a clip in a built-in media player; you can navigate back and forth within the video and mark the start and end position by pressing two buttons. When it comes to transitions, DVD Burning Xpress provides a long list of options (e.g. alpha blend, horizontal, vertical). Aside from previewing a transition effect and setting its duration, you can adjust the volume level and enable a fade in/out effect. An important part of any DVD movie is represented by its menu. With the help of this program, you can edit the menu item title (e.g. font, shadow, color), theme (e.g. visible elements, navigation controls), background music (MP3, WMA and WAV formats) and image (JPG and BMP formats). Once the project is done you can save it to file to further modifications, preview it or start a DVD burning session; configuration settings revolve around the CD/DVD recorder, output format (DVD or SVCD), disc image file creation (ISO format), disc label and TV system (NTSC or PAL). DVD Burning Xpress requires a moderate quantity of CPU and system memory, has a fair response time (it may take a while to load some options) and includes user documentation. We haven't experienced any difficulties throughout our testing, since the program was stable. On the downside, the application has not been updated for a long time. All in all, DVD Burning Xpress provides users with an intuitive environment yet rich features for creating DVD movies, so it should please the entire audience.
