quality DTS-HD audio that is. Q: Split current code into multiple files I'm trying to convert my current project into multiple files. In the process of doing this, I am having a really hard time to figure out how to split the code. I used to have a bunch of functions and each function calls a lot of other functions to save memory. However, when I started going over the code and reading up what memory leaks are, it is pretty apparent that I'm going about this the wrong way.

So the class looks like this:

class create_user { std::string get_id_file(void) { const std::string path = "some file path"; ifstream return_id_file(path.c_str()); if (return_id_file.is_open()) { return return_id_file; } return std::string("not found"); } std::string find_users_by_id(const std::string& id) { const std::string path = "some file path"; std::string retval = "not found"; std::ifstream find_id_file(path.c_str()); if (find_id_file.is_open()) {
