Phenotypic characterization of the nephron compartment in osteogenesis imperfecta: a case study with implications for diagnosing osteogenesis imperfecta. Numerous studies have documented the fact that >90% of patients with osteogenesis imperfecta (OI) have nephrolithiasis, a finding presumably related to the fragility of the fragile bones of patients with OI. However, the total number of nephrons in a patient with OI is not known. We have genotyped 2 siblings who have OI VIIA with a mutation in the COL1A1 gene, and their parents. The children presented with nephrolithiasis and severe hypocalciuria. The second child (with OI) developed chronic renal failure that required hemodialysis. The younger child has normal kidney function. We measured urinary calcium excretion, serum and urine creatinine, fractional excretion of sodium, and fractional excretion of calcium in these patients, and in 2 normal control subjects. All 2 children with OI VII had more nephrolithiasis and a lower urine calcium concentration compared to their normal sibling or their parents, however, they had calcium excretion rates and fractional excretions of calcium identical to controls. We conclude that nephrocalcinosis and hypocalciuria are two hallmarks of OI, yet the pathogenesis of nephrolithiasis and hypocalciuria remains unknown. The number of functioning nephrons in patients with OI may be decreased relative to normal, but this needs to be proven by a prospective study of the nephron count.

I want to ask to my contractor how to make a specific element of a web page. I have a list of that element, i.e. with the HTML code. For example: "how can i make the image look pixel perfect using CSS/SASS?" What is the best StackExchange site to do so? A: You could ask it on either Web Applications or Webmasters, but that's a bit too broad for us, and not related to construction, and therefore off-topic. A: This belongs on Electrical Engineering - but it doesn't fit the Q&A format because of the open ended nature of the question. (It's also not a good idea to teach someone CSS without an underlying, thought out technical question.) So, here are the things to consider when choosing power tools:
