A: You are playing a game where there is a tree and a man with a bow on the left. for 60m each, the man shoots on the tree there is a bear on the right if the man successfully shot, one of the following happens if you touch the bear, the man doesn't shoot if you don't touch the bear, the man shoots It's said that the man shoots in the direction of the arrow. If you touch the bear with the left mouse, nothing happens. if you don't touch the bear, the man shoots and starts bouncing. The mouse sensitivity has to be adjusted for the game to work properly. A: #1, #3, #4, #5 the game is a combination of puzzles and a rpg. it's a puzzle game, that has a rpg part. imagine a higher level version of you-ve-got-mail (Wii game). the puzzles are selected on-the-fly: sometimes, they are actions of the player, like: pick up the mail, or pick up a box, move it to an indicated place, etc. the rpg parts are random items, which can be used by the player, or not. the 'bot' can be any kind of enemy, or just random stuff, picked up on the floor, some objects, that the player can find himself/herself and check what they can be used for. I don't know if it's the same as the WUMI game, but it seems more like the first few levels of Leisure Suit Larry. Q: How do I convert a simple list of arrays of ints to a list of ints of ints?
