Liquid silicone rubber compositions are generally divided into two types, high polymer and low polymer. High polymer silicone rubber has a viscosity of about 10,000 to about 20,000 cps at room temperature, whereas low polymer silicone rubber has a viscosity of about 100 to about 1,000 cps at room temperature. Liquid silicone rubber compositions having a low viscosity at room temperature have the following advantages: high ease of handling, relatively low energy for the pumping and metering process, and relatively low cost for the liquid silicone rubber composition per unit volume. For these reasons, liquid silicone rubber compositions having a low viscosity at room temperature are in great demand. Liquid silicone rubber compositions having a low viscosity at room temperature and moldability, which have been considered to be quite difficult to prepare, are reported in patent documents 1 to 5. Patent document 1: PCT/JP90/00062 Patent document 2: Japanese Unexamined Patent Application, First Publication No. HEI 7-139687 Patent document 3: Japanese Unexamined Patent Application, First Publication No. HEI 7-273984 Patent document 4: Japanese Unexamined Patent Application, First Publication No. HEI 7-273985 Patent document 5: Japanese Unexamined Patent Application, First Publication No. HEI 7-273986 Patent document 6: Japanese Unexamined Patent Application, First Publication No. HEI 10-149944 These liquid silicone rubber compositions having a low viscosity at room temperature reported in patent documents 1 to 5 are unsatisfactory in the sense that they need high energy when mixed with a condensate of dimethyl silicone oil of the methyl hydrogen polysiloxane type, and the resulting liquid silicone rubber composition has low weather-resistance. The Pretty Little Liars books continue to provide plenty of material for both the TV series and movie spinoffs. The film adaptation of the sixth and final book in the series, If The End Is Right, will be released in June 2010, and a recent interview with an author on the subject reveals a few more juicy bits of information about the film. Bella Andre is an American author who has written books in the young adult and teen genre. She has published a string of novels focused on the Pretty Little Liars series in the past two years. Popular Beach Club Popular Beach Club (often stylized as popularb.c.l or popularb.c.) is an American hip hop radio show broadcast nationally on Sirius XM's Hot 97 channel from mid-2012 to mid-2014 on the five-city branch of the POP2.COM digital broadcast platform, and later on a nationwide broadcast. Programming In January 2012, HOT97 began a 6-hour daily program which showcased an array of hip hop artists and culture from around the world through a Hip Hop International component. The first host of the daily program was DJ Envy; he was succeeded by Pete Rosenberg, who was followed by Tino Beats and then DJ Skee. HOT97 also began a two-hour weekend show, called "HOT-103.7," which continued the Hip Hop International feature. The program was hosted by Pete Rosenberg, along with resident expert Phat Kat. In 2013, with its re-launch, the show was modified to be host-less, with DJ Envy, (or his substitute, Afrika Bambaataa) playing the role of host. The show featured two hours of the weekly programming on Saturdays, followed by two hours of the daily programming on Sundays, and in the alternate weeks, a 1 hour interview show with hip-hop artist. Popular Beach Club permanently ended its run on HOT97 on August 7, 2014. 2BLASTOH In January 2013, Sirius XM announced they would be launching a new nationwide music channel focusing on hip-hop called Hot 97.
