Season 1 opens up with a new mechanic in the game, and it's a huge upgrade! With Season 1 Furry Arts, the Artisans will first send you a chit that tells you about a suggested set of seasonal materials (each season has 2/3 materials). These materials include 2-5 new chits and 2-5 seasonal effects. The effect you get depends on what materials you suggest, and what your Artisan has chosen for that season. There are many classes of Artisans in the game, and their seasonal effects differ, so some suggestions will be more effective for one Artisan than for another. In addition, there is a new seasonal mechanic called Accumulated Effects. Each seasonal effect has 5 default attributes (shown in the right-hand column of their corresponding material). These default values are your starting point for the season, but you can increase or decrease the attributes of each effect in your Skill window with special skills. It can be hard to predict what will work well with a particular effect, so knowing the material information can help you make more informed decisions. For example, a holiday with a cloud party might look like this: Furry Arts Slime Oak Tree Sap Cushion Children's bed Robust Trunks Tree Sap Tree Sap Christmas 2*Cushion 2*Cushion 2*Cushion 2*Cushion 2*Cushion 2*Cushion 2*Cushion 2*Cushion The calendar included with the DLC is an exact recreation of the 2021 calendar from the original game. The calendar is included in the DLC and can be viewed and customized in the interactive interface of Seasons With Furry Arts. This content also included in: - The Bestiary - Extra Artisan Skill Trees (Hardback, Softcover, and Digital) - New Skill Trees (Hardback, Softcover, and Digital) - New Artisan Skill Trees (Hardback, Softcover, and Digital) - DLC Characters (3 new characters and 5 cosmetic variants) - Decorations (24 new decorations) - A new artbook with over 100 new illustrations and designs - A new item set (12 new items) - A new soundset with over 100 new sounds - A new UI (14 new graphics) - 30 new dialogs for Season 1 Furry Arts and the rest of the game - Extra vacation content Season 1 Furry Arts

Asus Announces the First All-Flash SSD Storage to Serve ASRock Z170M-D3 Motherboards Sandy Chen, Director of Technology Marketing at Asus, has revealed that the manufacturer wants to make it easier for users to switch to solid-state drives (SSDs) by offering the first all-flash storage device for ASRock motherboard users this holiday season. Intel's X25-V is in production now, and this product will be coming later this year, making use of the new 3D TLC NAND flash technology. It adds that the company will also join the other small- and medium-sized SSD makers in introducing a new all-flash drive that will fit into a 2.5-inch SATA drive. The new all-flash storage device is 65 percent smaller than other current SSDs and can replace 5.25" storage devices that are about 40 percent larger. The new storage solution has more than doubled the storage capacity of previous models, and is also said to deliver an 8.7x reduction in power consumption, 20x cost reduction, and 2.5x smaller height profile. It will make use of the 3D TLC NAND technology and be available sometime in the third quarter of this year. The new all-flash drive will range in price between $26 and $34. "

We have a bit of an unusual use case here. For the purpose of a school-based assignment, we are creating a set of books for the Great Library of the Future. Each book is essentially a glorified webpage. Because of this, we have tried to keep the implementation of these books as independent as possible, but it seems that the interface requirements aren't enough in some cases. Books can have multiple authors, but the same authors will appear multiple times. Currently, each book will have a different authors table, since I am applying all the data from c9d1549cdd

What's new:

On my second try, after I learned some things from my first try at it, I came up with a better version. I was thinking more along the lines of like a wind instrument with a handle. I think it will be the way many people come up with first. There are more cool ideas out there, but this will get the job done and people wont need to spend the extra money. They'll be happy with this fun-to-play version. He's so lame, but I love him

Three of them were one-character typo votes (I know how to fix them). But the fourth one, was intentional. So, what is the type of this particular downvote? I'm curious, for future reference, what would they be. A: It was a down-vote on your comment. In other words, "this comment of yours is not useful in this particular context." In other words, it's a down-vote on the comment rather than an answer of your own, so there's no real reason for someone to up-vote your comment. These types of down-votes are fairly common on comments that don't add any meaning or use to the thread, and are generally not a problem. A: I suspect that was a downvote on an answer you posted. (It was and it was) A: IMHO, that downvote was on one of your comments. I would venture to guess it was to show that one of your comments was not useful, and you are not worth rep by downvoting you.
