Explore PIAGGIO. Scooter Piaggio VESPA RALLY 200 Service Manual Repair Manual.This invention relates to a heat insulating material and its application to a heat-insulated material and, more particularly, to a heat-insulated material whose insulating performance is remarkably improved by removing the oxidation inhibiting film of the surface and to its application. In recent years, development of heat-insulated materials for insulating the interior of automobiles and buildings has been actively carried out. As heat-insulated materials, especially those having a large heat insulating capacity, have been developed with the intention of increasing the safety of automobiles, increasing the fuel efficiency of automobiles and providing lower power dissipation and, therefore, there have been developed heat-insulated materials which have lower thermal conductivity and can conduct heat only in an insulated direction, such as heat insulating windows, heat insulating glass, heat insulating buildings, heat insulating cloth, heat insulating paints and heat insulating films. The above-mentioned heat-insulated materials have, in many cases, a surface protective film to prevent the surface of a material from being oxidized with oxygen in the air. As the material having the above-mentioned surface protective film, for example, a heat-insulated material described in Japanese Unexamined Patent Publication No. 143913/1989 was developed. This heat-insulated material comprises a film made of a polymer obtained by polymerization of an epoxy resin, a silicone resin and the like, and a coating layer of a phthalocyanine-based pigment, a quinacridone-based pigment or the like which is formed on the surface of the above-mentioned film.
