In a joint communication from cyber security experts at Proofpoint and Trend Micro, researchers detail a new Remote Access Tool (RAT) discovered in the wild targeting organizations that use Adobe ColdFusion. The new malware, dubbed as CF WSDialer, aims to steal credentials of online users, download malicious files and retrieve confidential data for clients, but a Trend Micro spokesperson told Bleeping Computer in an email that the RAT does not appear to be actively being used in the wild. "The RAT is a potentially dangerous threat that would potentially allow an attacker
