2015 CrackQ: Ordering via a list I have a list of 'things' class Thing { public string name {get; set;} public bool ordered {get; set;} }

For each thing i want to be able to order them from least to most ordered. I would think that this would be simple via a loop with a sorted() function, but the problem is, i am not sure of the best way to do this. For instance, if i have a list like [Thing1, Thing2, Thing3] Then the

operation would be to sort the list by `sorted(things)`, but i am not sure how to do this. The items in the list are unknown in advance and can be from any number of classes. A: You need to use LINQ `OrderBy` (or just use the `OrderBy` Extension Method)

List things =... var
orderedThings =
things.OrderBy(t => t.ordered);

Edit: The above solution will have the ordering starting from the oldest stuff. You could easily use `OrderByDescending` to have the ordering starting from the newest. If you want to sort a collection of unknown objects in unknown order for you, you could write your own `SortClass` (or have it inside a static class):

public abstract class SortClass {

---

public int ID {get; set;} public string Name {get; set;} public bool IsOrdered {get; set;} // Obviously you'll have to implement your own sorting function(s) } 6d1f23a050
